Tools & Competencies

Pulse is a data-driven insights platform able to support brands by answering main marketing questions. It helps to drive business forward and to gain business relevant insights based on digital data.

Kpi6 combines classic market research tools (like panels and surveys) with social & web intelligence to provide unique consumer insights.

Sonar helps brands to discover new trends in real-time and see what drives future innovations before others do. It's a Predictive Analysis software based on AI and machine learning processes.

TalkWalker is an online and social data analytics software company, specialized in listening, analytics and reporting that empowers over 2,000 brands in analysing online conversations on social networks.

Consumer Intelligence insights platform.
KPI6 provides a 360-degree view on what's going on in a specific brand's market and is able. To let clients resonate with the core audiences.

Listening: download all conversations about relevant topics, brands and people, and analyze them. Classification: enrich conversations with Artificial Intelligence to find additional strategic information to leverage. Segmentation: create audiences to analyze with powerful AI. Find demographics, interests, personality traits and much more. Profiling: color segments with more than 2,000 data points coming from traditional market research, to get a 360-degree view on audiences.

Trommsdorff + Drüner, a Reply Company, developed SONAR together with DFKI, the German Research Center for Artificial Intelligence. SONAR gathers information from thousands of different sources in a continuously growing database. So far there are more than 40 million articles indexed – and more are being added every day.

SONAR helps us to discover new trends in real-time and see what drives future innovations before others do. Once trends are scouted, they are analyzed and clustered to make exploration, validation, and prediction as easy as possible.

THE LABEL OF TOMORROW

BRANDED CONTENT

THE LABEL OF TOMORROW

Italian talent and machine learning at the service of Birra Nastro Azzurro's brand identity: here is The Label of Tomorrow, an inspiration to innovate.

At stake are the talent of the calligrapher and lettering designer Nick Visioli, the mastery of technology of the engineering team of Officine Innesto and the bionic arm of Armarius, the robot that would appear well in a scriptorium 4.0. As proof that the talents - on which the brand has been working for years - are not afraid of collaboration to go far, and rewrite paradigms, Armarius has learned the art of calligraphy from Visioli and made a full immersion into the Nastro Azzurro brand identity, to then create his own output.

THE LABEL OF TOMORROW

The Label of Tomorrow project is also an introduction and a manifesto of inspiration for the innovators of the future, who can apply with their ideas on Nastro Azzurro Crowd, the brand's initiative to find Italian talent and support it through multiple calls on the Eppela crowdfunding platform. .

Nastro Azzurro therefore bets on talents but at the same time, as an innovation player, suggests an approach that could also be replicated by the moving forward generation: cutting-edge tools, such as artificial intelligence, can be useful for rethinking the sensitivity and techniques that are part of traditions of very long course, such as calligraphy.

THE BRAIN SHOW

EXPERIENTIAL MKTG

EXPERIENTIAL MARKETING

To launch the third season of "What the brain tells you" (Brain games) in the world, Nat Geo Channel entrusts xister with the creation of an experience aimed at revealing the magic of the human brain: The Brain Show is born, an activation on territory that combines neuroscience and art.

Thanks to the use of neurofeedback transmitters connected to an Oculus viewer, each user was able to create pieces of video art with very different results. In fact, sounds, colors and shapes were generated in real time by interpreting the neurofeedback values, effectively leaving everyone's mind to create their own show.

3. BRAIN CHECK

The project was awarded 3 golds at the prestigious Promax DB festival USA edition, in the categories "Best use of Technology", "Digital crafting" and "Innovative platform".

THE SOUND BREWERY PROJECT

VIRAL VIDEO

VIRAL VIDEO

Another project to celebrate the connection of talents possible thanks to Nastro Azzurro, which is the enabler of a visionary and innovative project, used to launch the first operation on a crowdfunding platform, also designed by the agency.

The sound brewery project is born from the collaboration of young musicians and interactive designers, a machine capable of transforming the ingredients of beer into music.

Entirely built and programmed "by hand", TSB wants to be a link between innovation and quality, values that the product and the Nastro Azzurro brand have always embodied.

Men in Black International

Drone Light Show

Objective

Enhance the presentation of the upcoming release of Men in Black International at the Giffoni Film Festival 2019

Idea

To surprise attendees of the Festival, xister Reply conceives a surreal 'out of this world' marketing proximity experience for the opening evening with a Drone Light Show. The crowd witnesses the unexpected arrival of a UFO in the night sky when 100 drones, flying in formation and in perfect synch, give form to a UFO and then to the logo of the film.

The title card for 'Men in Black International' features the words 'MEN IN BLACK' in a large, bold, gold-outlined font. The letters are three-dimensional and have a bright, glowing light source emanating from the top center, creating a lens flare effect. Below 'MEN IN BLACK', the word 'INTERNATIONAL' is written in a smaller, white, sans-serif font. The entire title is set against a dark, textured background.

Gioco Digitale

Tanto per divertirsi

Objective

Gioco Digitale is the Italian online gaming portal that offers continuously updated gaming to users. They asked us to make their new brand campaign and create a character that could remain imprinted in users.

Idea

In Xister campaign the fun of playing on Gioco Digitale is underlined via the use of a specific graphic element: the hand.

The combination of the characteristic movements and gestures of human hands with the power of the color are the key elements that drive the the message that players have fun when they interact with Gioco Digitale games.

Party Casino

Slot into our world

Objective

Communicate the rebranding of the gaming platform as a place where customers can go to escape their everyday reality and experience the thrill of entertainment, immersing themselves in their favourite fantasy world.

Idea

Using mixed media techniques combining real-life footage with 3D illustrations of the different fantasy world visual identities of the brand, xister Reply creates a multi-channel TV, OOH and digital campaign featuring different creatives for different gamer types.

A woman in a taxi finds herself surrounded by camels and pyramids of the ancient Egypt fantasy world, a young man out shopping finds himself on a Tropical island, a sports fan amongst Irish leprechauns, clover and rainbows and a guy on a coach discovers he's living out a Viking adventure.

NEW TRENDS

WE BELIEVE THAT IN TIMES OF CHANGE CREATIVITY CAN COME TO THE RESCUE.

DYNAMIC CONTENT

WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT WORKS?

Dynamic Content

Is a type of web content used in particular in web marketing and email marketing.

Generally these are parts of HTML code such as forms, landing pages or parts of pages that can change depending on the user who views them based on the profile and past history of the visitor (actions performed, pages viewed, searches carried out, etc.), these contents will be modified in order to offer him a personalized and tailored experience.

SHOPSTREAMING

WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT WORKS?

Shopstreaming

It means the buying and selling of products or services during live videos or live shows on social channels or on eCommerce apps and platforms that make ad hoc functions available to sellers and merchants.

Shopstreaming - The Main Benefit

Buying during a direct on Instagram or on Twitch can be, first of all, more fun than doing it on the official eShop of a brand or looking for the products you are interested in on marketplaces such as Amazon.

The shows are designed to entertain their communities and, only later, to sell. Just think, for example, that in America, during a New York Fashion Week, the Kohl's department stores streamed the LC Lauren Conrad fashion show and allowed those who were watching the show to buy the clothes live, leading decidedly to the see-now-buy-now model is extremely successful.

SHOPSTREAMING

LIVE STREAMING AS TEleshopping 2.0

In China teenagers and young adults are already drawn to teleshopping channels featuring vivacious hosts trying out products and responding in real-time to consumer enquiries.

New technologies have given brands more opportunities to connect with consumers: they all follow a “see now, buy now” model.

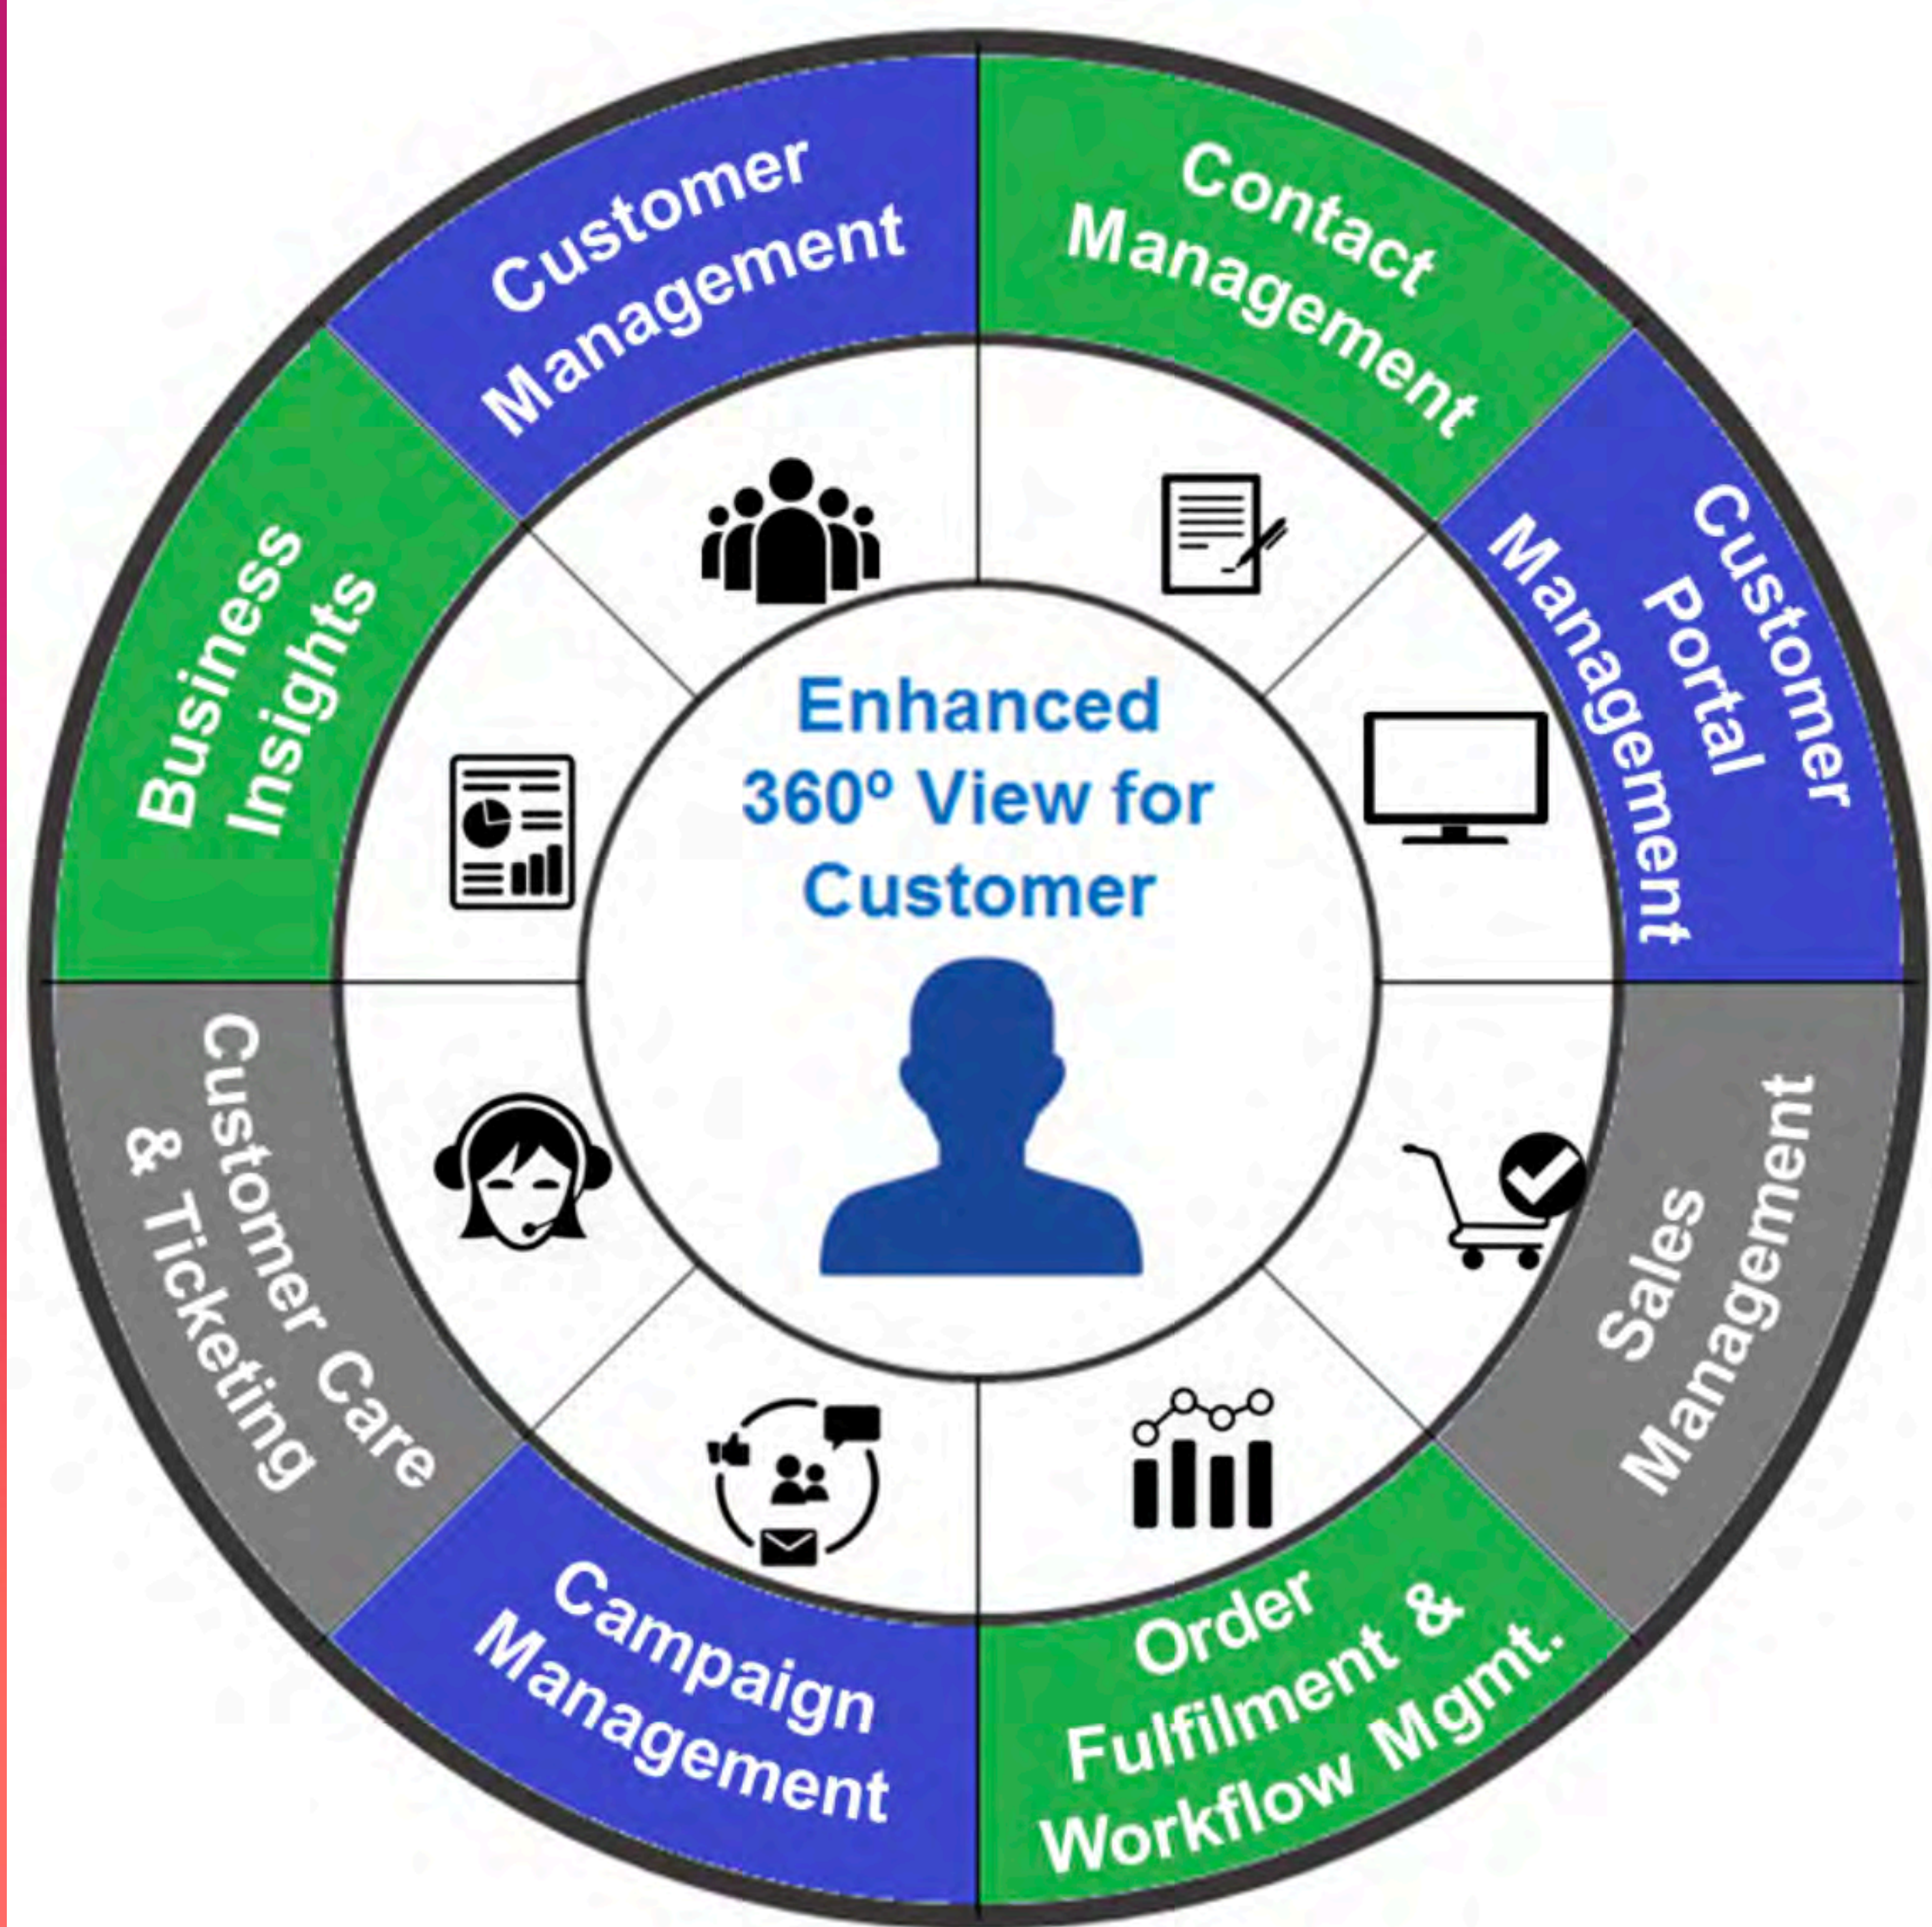

Live-streaming sessions have become increasingly popular in the last few years as consumers crave immersive experiences and personalised recommendations.

This trend combines live streaming with real-time chat and one-click purchases to create seamless shopping experiences

Shopstreaming-Customer Experience

Shopstreaming is often entrusted to influencers, and also recovers the dimension of meeting with the brand that traditionally has purchases in the store: strategically thought out, it can add involvement to the customer experience online.

Shopstreaming - Customer Care

Shopstreaming also allows a sort of live customer care: it takes advantage of the moment of direct to collect doubts, questions and requests from customers and potential customers to answer in real time and publicly for the benefit of those who have the same type of perplexity and, above all, its own resources destined for customer and after-sales assistance.

Shopstreaming sessions have become increasingly popular as consumers crave immersive experiences and personalised recommendations.

VIRTUAL INFLUENCERS

Virtual Influencers

To highlight how artificial intelligence can be increasingly made available to brands, virtual influencers are virtual models and models that can be customized in terms of somatic traits, skin color and hair to create photographic services without the need for models and models in flesh bones.

The increasingly real nature of virtual influencers has made them difficult to distinguish from real people today.

Virtual Influencers-The Main Benefit

The management of an influencer requires remuneration, organizational costs, purchase of tickets to participate in events, logistics and transport costs. With a virtual influencer, only the costs of production, graphic processing and a contract with any company that holds the rights of the virtual influencer are addressed. There are already many virtual influencers that appear on the cover of international fashion magazines and in the feeds of numerous brands: Miquela, Noonoori, Shudu, Imma and Daisy, Colonel Sanders, etc. They have recognizable faces and millions of followers on Instagram.

According to the HypeAuditor report, they have nearly three times the social engagement rate compared to real influencers.

Virtual Influencers - Real Opportunity

The trend is growing rapidly, as are their fans. They do not only have normal appearances, but they communicate lifestyles very close to reality. What we can say is that each of them was planned today to look like a real character. In fact, in their accounts they constantly publish contents also through stories, they live real everyday situations, they communicate with users following the characteristics of well defined and a priori planned personas.

Their lives, albeit digital and studied at the table, still manage to express those emotional and inspirational characters by making sure that their followers somehow manage to identify themselves in their daily situations.

ESPORTS

WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT WORKS?

ESports

ESports, or electronic sports, are the activity that involves playing video games at a competitive level, organized as a tournament, with direct clashes between individuals or teams with an importance that is considered as a real sporting event. It is an industrial sector in constant growth and passion for millions of teenagers since the International Olympic Committee has shown interest becoming a real trend.

The champions have an age ranging from 16 to 25 years and their goal is to be the best on the square to their favorite video game. Some even have a fan club and their nickname is punctuated by real choirs in sports halls.

Esports - Real Opportunity

Competitive ESports are a market segment that analysts see exceed one and a half billion usd in 2020 and whose protagonists are already competing today for prize pools in excess of twenty million. Other proceeds will come from Advertising with approximately 189.2 million. globally, the audience will reach 453.8 million fans, an increase of 15%. Looking ahead, the economic potential of eSports will continue to attract investments with great visibility for brands through advertising and sponsors. Among the most important sponsors: Red Bull, Coca-Cola, Intel, Acer, Mercedes, Gillette, Mastercard, etc. investing increasingly significant shares.

Advertising is a real opportunity in Esports for product placement or awareness. It represents an opportunity to preserve the integrity of the user's gaming experience and, at the same time, trigger the necessary involvement and persuasion dynamics.
